FIELDWATER

MEDIA FACT SHEET / OCTOBER 22, 2026

Introducing FIELDWATER

FIELDWATER, INC is a Columbus-based Indiana nonprofit and IRS-recognized 501(c)(3) public charity, effective September 17, 2026. EIN 42-5152200. Its mission is to restore broken water systems in hard-to-reach communities through local partnerships. Public launch: October 23, 2026.

A practical approach

Assess the need, repair what can be restored, test the result and plan for maintenance. New infrastructure is an option when rehabilitation cannot meet the need. FIELDWATER is developing its first projects; partner proposals, fundraising and completed work are distinct stages.

East Bali: 27 family sponsorships

East Bali Poverty Project proposes 27 household rainwater reservoirs in Bunga, Manikaji and Darmaji. Whole sponsorships are $360 each toward a $9,720 goal, using EBPP's USD approximation. Final costs and delivery arrangements are being confirmed. Construction photographs show earlier partner work, not FIELDWATER-funded reservoirs.

Other partner work taking shape

BASEDA requests $100,000 for eight proposed water systems in Malawi; individual scopes and budgets are being reconciled. Water for Cambodia proposes household biosand filters and school water and hygiene support. Beyond Water and FIELDWATER are defining an initial repair and maintenance scope in Kasungu, Malawi. Partner requests are not funds received or approved grants.

Giving and accountability

General one-time and monthly gifts support FIELDWATER flexibly across partners and necessary operations. East Bali gifts are designated for that proposed project under its published terms, with FIELDWATER covering processing fees. Earlier designated gifts retain their original purposes. No founder contribution is included in current funding or progress. Contributions are tax-deductible to the extent permitted by law.

Founder and contact

Andrew Cunningham spent fifteen years helping build and operate a manufacturing company, with much of that work in filtration. Contact: andrew@fieldwater.org. Website: fieldwater.org.
